Spring 2017

Hello everyone and welcome to the spring newsletter. I know it's spring because I heard two union workers on the bus and one said to the other, "I see the daffodils are out " and the other said "Is it official?"

Since the last edition of the Boards, we have seen the production of Little Miss Wormwood by smAll & Sundry and what a great production it was! There were two really good audiences and everyone did us proud. Congratulations to all concerned but special credit to Emma, Rachel and Anja for producing the show. There is a full review of the show on our website.

Our next production is nearly upon us. The schools' production of "Dr Jeckyll & Mr Hyde" commences on 30th March. Ticket sales have been very good but there are still tickets available for the Saturday night, which is at 7.00 pm, so do try and get to see it, it promises to be an exciting production.

Following shortly on its heels will be our studio production of "A Darker Shade Of Beige", starting 6th April in Redditch and 20th April in Bromsgrove. Ticket sales are a little slow, particularly at Redditch, so please spread the word, and if you are planning on going to see it (and I hope you are), it would be helpful if you could order your tickets, so we can gauge what action may be necessary. Though I say so myself, it's going to be a great show.

It's certainly all go at the moment at Rowney Green, as rehearsals for our June production of "One Man, Two Guvnors" have also started. It's the first time I can remember us rehearsing for three shows at the same time.

World News

In Florida, a defence lawyer was summing up the defence of his client on an arson charge, saying the car spontaneously combusted, when his own trousers caught fire due to a faulty e-cigarette battery. It was reported under the headline "Lawyer, lawyer, pants on fire".

In London, a sack of frogs was found dumped in an underground carpark. A number of frogs had managed to escape before they were rescued but two were run over. Unfortunately, they croaked !

In Egypt they have discovered a new tomb in which they found a mummy encased in chocolate. It was the tomb of Pharaoh Roche !

And finally, do you know who invented the round table? King Arthur, perhaps? No, it was Sir Cumference.

That's all folks,

Rog
